

14.9 Talking About Science: Peter and Rosemary Grant study the evolution of Darwin's finches

- The occasional hybridization of finch species adds to the genetic variation of parent populations
  - This may have been important in the adaptive radiation of finch species

Figure 14.9